FALL 23

We have been building a community for everyone who values outdoor fun above anything else since 1974.

Providing the best technical gear and apparel for outdoor athletes of every ability.

WAY BACK AND BEYOND.

STAYING TRUE
SINCE '74

Wildness inspires us

Marmot started as a club, the brainchild of mountain-loving misfits and free-thinking skiers, climbers and campers.

The Marmot Mountain Club was a place where everyone was welcome and all the members were president. Above all else, Marmots valued fun in the outdoors. That spirit of fun and inclusivity lives on. We still believe that if you're not having fun, you're doing it wrong.

Since 1974, we've been guided by a simple truth: Outdoor Fun fuels the soul!

HERITAGE CAMPAIGN

We celebrate Marmot heritage, past, present and future.

Today's outdoor fans have an eye on a brand's purpose, and authenticity is key. Marmot has a ton of both, and in 2023 we show our muscles by celebrating our rich heritage together with the modern community.

Do you look for classic styles that meet the current standards of technical outdoor apparel and sustainability? Don't look any further!

INNOVATION IN INSULATION

Since 1974, Marmot has pioneered the evolution of warm and insulated technical apparel.

F23 is no different: after the successful launch of WarmCube Active as our active insulation technology, we present a brand new Hype Down Hoody. The 20d Pertex Quantum recycled Nylon Mini Ripstop shell now aligns with our ultralight gas bag collection and gets paired with an equally light 100% recycled nylon lining. But what is really exciting is what we are now filling it with: ExpeDry Down now includes hydrophobic physical attributes and thus reduces the use of chemical substances for this true technical midlayer.

ExpeDRY TECHNOLOGY

ExpeDRY™ is a new chemical free alternative to water repellent treated hydrophobic down.

FEATURES:

- high performing water resistant alternative for real world situations
- chemical free
- permanent
- non-toxic and safe for environment
- decreases carbon footprint while increasing performance

SUSTAINABILITY:

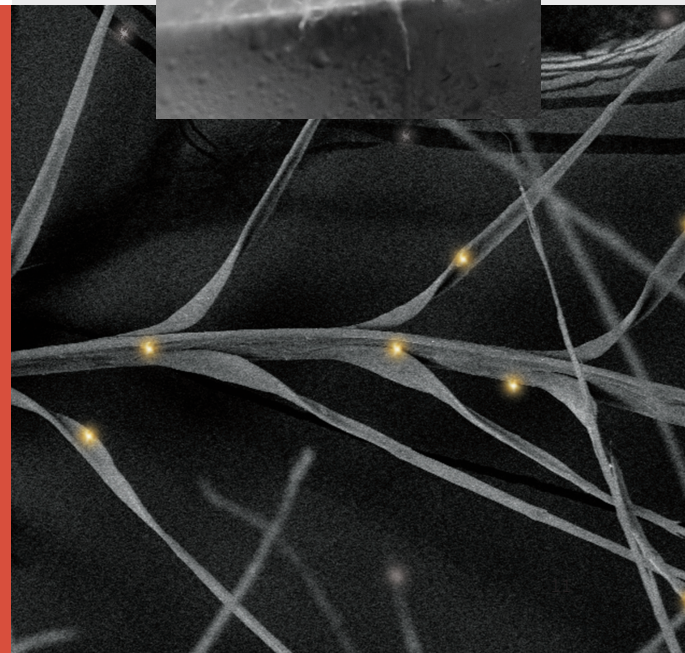

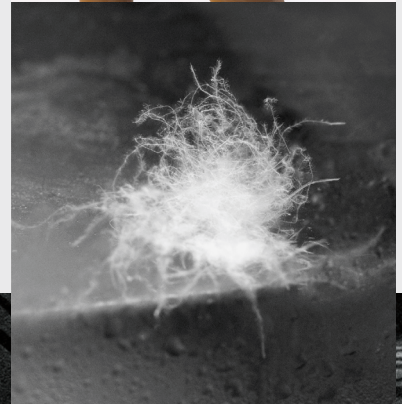

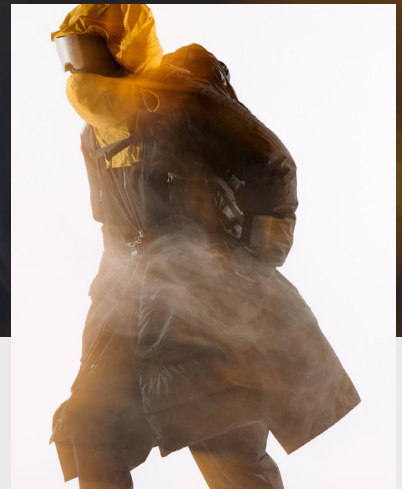

- because the down is drying faster it is actually reducing the amount of time and energy used by almost 30%
- no chemical bonding to the gold particles
- purchasing carbon offsets for the gold particles used in down process
- equal to water repellent treatment, but without the need of additive chemicals
- treatment does not wash out of the down, unlike water repellent treatment overtime
- leads to longer life of product

MEN'S & WM'S HYPE DOWN HOODY

In our quest for continuous innovation in the outdoor industry as well as our long-standing commitment to sustainability, Marmot presents a ground-breaking alternative for water-resistant down treatments.

LIFESTYLE

UPDATES AND NEWNESS

In urban environments, you see our color blocked and insulated styles around the world when temperatures drop. For the Guides Down Hoody, our most popular classic lifestyle franchise, we introduce not only a vest, but also a new sustainable down alternative by adding Kapok flower down to the already recycled down. The new Ares Jacket is built in the same way and speaks even more to the heritage language of the wild 70s that consumers fancy so much these days.

KAPOK FLOWER DOWN

We chose the best fibers that nature has produced and we blended them together with a sophisticated system to create the most sustainable natural filling.

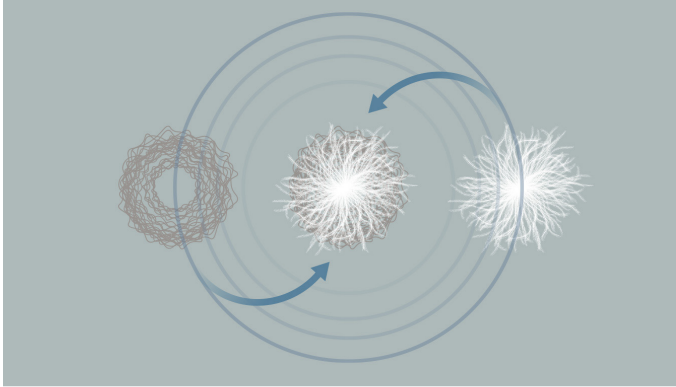

HOW FLOWER DOWN IS MADE:

Flower Down combines the incredible properties of Kapok and recycled down. Here two natural components allow us to reach the highest technical performance with minimal environmental impact.

MEN'S & WM'S GUIDES DOWN HOODY

ARES JACKET

KAPOK

The best and most sustainable vegetable filling.

Kapok trees grow freely in tropical forests, they are not subject to mass cultivation and don't need artificial irrigation or pesticides. The kapok fiber is obtained from the kapok fruit in a manual process done by local farmers, so in addition to being good for the planet, it's good for the local communities as well

RECYCLED DOWN

The best and most sustainable animal-by-product filling.

Down is the most sustainable filling material, LCA studies show that it has up to 97% lower environmental impact than polyester fillings.

Compared to virgin down, processing recycled down needs even less water, energy and detergents.

SNOW SUSTAINABILITY

NEW GORE ePE MEMBRANES

Greener than ever, our snow styles let you play on the slopes and within the white powder. With the new ePE membrane from GORE-TEX we present sustainable outfits that are 100% free of PFC while keeping you dry and comfortable using waterproof and windproof technical shells. And with the colors of the season, along with our fitted midlayers and accessories, you can be sure that some heads will turn next winter.

We call it:
Performance and Play.

INTRODUCING

NEW ePE MEMBRANE

The Expanded Polyethylene (Epe) Membrane, a new complementary material platform to serve as the basis for our membrane technologies. Our new ePE membrane will appear in our products as of Fall/Winter 2023.

WHAT’S IT ALL ABOUT:

- Leverages high strength-to-weight ratio to create extremely lightweight and thin composites that are still mechanically robust
- Enables durable performance and a low environmental footprint
- When combined with Polyurethane (PU), the result creates a durably waterproof, windproof and breathable membrane
- Combination of the ePE material and low membrane mass results in a lower carbon footprint, as measured by Higg MSI
- Advances Gore Fabrics Division's goal for being free of PFCs of Environmental Concern* (PFCEC) over the lifecycle of its consumer products

Our new WarmCube™ insulation is at it again, this time paired with windproof GORE-TEX® Infinium™ and super-plush 800-fill-power down. Long story short, this puffy winter jacket will blow your mind while keeping you protected from winter's nastiest conditions. Perfect for stop-and-go city slicking and frigid urban exploration, WarmCube technology moves and traps air inside the jacket so you never get too hot climbing subway stairs or sledding hills, and you retain that blanket-wrapped warmth when you stop at the campfire. Big and puffy without the bulk, it's warm enough to throw over your gym clothes and stylish enough to accompany you out on the town.

The all-new WarmCube™ Active Alt HB Jacket offers warmth when you want it and when you need it. This versatile winter active piece can cover all your heart-racing cold weather adventures layered on the inside or chilling on the outside. Internal temps are regulated by circulating air while you're moving and trapping heat inside down cubes when you stop. What does that mean? You won't overheat on high-altitude, high-pulse hikes when you'd typically be shedding layers, and you'll stay warm even when you're catching your breath in the thick of the backcountry powder. If snow or rain isn't in the forecast, rock the Alt HB standalone as a heat-pumping, ultra-breathable outer option.

Dropping temps? No worries. The Men's Wind River sleeping bag is stuffed with 650-fill-power down to keep you nice and toasty. Features like a down-filled draft collar plus a multi-baffled hood team up to prevent heat loss, and dual-side zips let you regulate the temp while making it easy to climb in and out of the bag. Looking for more room? Open the footbox for space to stretch or zip it up for extra warmth. Unzip the extended zipper flaps on extra-cold nights for blanket-like coverage.

Synthetic Insulations

HL-ElixR ECO (100% recycled fibers) Is a unique blend of 1 denier and 2.5 denier fibers. overlapped In very fine layers provides maximum warmth and compressibility. HL-ElixR Micro is a high performance variation with superfine denier fibers for less bulk and lighter weight.

SpiraFil - a unique blend of 3 denier spiral hollow fibers for loft and 1 denier polyester fibers for warmth, softness and compressibility. Thermally bonded together for high tear strength and long-term durability. Exceptional combination of softness, lightweight, and compactability.

EN TESTING

When Marmot first started testing bags, especially when we used Gore-Tex' fabric, our designers would go into meat lockers and sleep over night. Once they were able to sleep through the night they looked at the amount of fill to determine the temp range. Nowadays it is a bit more scientific. We feel the EN test is the most reliable and accurate measure of the performance of a sleeping bag currently available. That's why we will continue to use the Thelma Center to achieve continuity in our EN test results. Here's a quick overview how the test is performed.

A Thermal Manikin is dressed in a track suit and knee long socks, heated up to a constant surface temperature of 34°C. This test is made in climatic chamber where temperature excursion of the surrounding air cannot be more than ± 0.5 °C. Temperature is set to a value that guarantees that temperature gradient between dummy and air is higher than 15 °C. When all readings are stable and the power required to keep the temperature of the 20 different body segments is stable too, the test starts. Goal is to record the power needed to keep the dummy at 34°C. When less power is needed = more thermal resistance and a warmer sleeping bag.

The energy needed to keep the manikin temp stable is expressed in the fundamental unit of Thermal Resistance - m2 K/W. The test results are displayed in a temperature range rather than just in a single number.

Upper Limit is based on a standard man (25 years old, 173cm height and a weight of 73 kg) as the highest temperature without sweating to have a comfortable nights sleep

T- Comfort Is based on a standard woman (25 years old, 160cm height and a weight of 60 kg) having a comfortable nights sleep

T- Limit is based on a standard man as the lowest temperature to have a comfortable nights sleep

T- Extreme is where risk of health damage by hypothermia occurs for standard woman.
